

MyGurukul

SACRED WISDOM — SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2026

SACRED TEXT

satyaṃ dhṛtiśca śauryaṃ ca brahmacaryaṃ ca kevalam d sarvāṇi yuyudhāne'sminnityāni puruṣarṣabhe e balinaṃ satyakarmāṇamadīnamaparājitaṃ d vāsudevasamaṃ yuddhe vāsudevādanantaram e dhanañjayopadeśena śreṣṭhamiṣvastrakarmaṇi d pārthena samamastreṣu kastaṃ droṇādavārayat e

— Bhagavad Gita (Chapter 7), Verses 34-36

GURU'S INTERPRETATION

The verses extol his unwavering commitment to truth (satyam), his steadfastness (dhriti), his bravery (shauryam), and his absolute celibacy (brahmacharyam). These qualities, the scripture emphasizes, are perpetually present in this great man, a true among men, a purusharshabha. It paints a picture of a being whose inner strength is as formidable as his outer prowess.

The verses further elaborate on Satyaki's might, his dedication to truthful action (satyakarma), his unyielding spirit (adeenam), and his invincibility (aparajitam). He is even compared to Vasudeva, Lord Krishna himself, in battle, second only to Krishna. Imagine the magnitude of such praise! He is lauded for his skill with weapons, refined through the teachings of Arjuna (Dhananjaya). The text poses a rhetorical question: who, save Arjuna, could rival or restrain him in the art of weaponry, especially considering Drona's instruction?

What does this tell you? It's not merely about celebrating a warrior. It's a profound commentary on the qualities that make a person truly great. Truthfulness, fortitude, courage, and self-control are not just ancient ideals; they are the very bedrock of a fulfilling and meaningful life, even today. Satyaki becomes a role model, illustrating that true strength comes from inner discipline and adherence to dharma. He reminds you that mastering your inner self is as important, if not more so, than any external skill. Arjuna's guidance highlights the importance of mentorship and learning from those who have walked the path before us. In your own life, strive for that same inner balance and dedication to truth, and you too can become a warrior in your own right, battling against the challenges of existence with unwavering resolve.

REFLECTION FOR TODAY

In what area of your life could you benefit most from cultivating Satyaki's qualities of truthfulness, fortitude, courage, and self-control, and how might you begin to embody those virtues today?