

MyGurukul

SACRED WISDOM — SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2026

SACRED TEXT

*brahmasūnuratha vyāsaṃ samāyātaṃ mahaujasam |
pariṣvajya paraṃ premṇā provāca vacanaṃ śubham || 21 ||
diṣṭyā tvamasi dharmajña prasādātpārameśvarāt |
apetaśokaḥ samprāptaḥ prcchasva pravadāmyaham || 22 ||*

— Skandapurāṇa, Chapter 1, Verses 21-22

GURU'S INTERPRETATION

He is greeted with immense love and embraced. This embrace isn't just a physical one; it's a symbolic acceptance and recognition of Vyasa's elevated state. He is then addressed with auspicious words, a blessing of sorts. The text highlights Vyasa's understanding of dharma, emphasizing the importance of righteous conduct in the spiritual journey.

The phrase "diṣṭyā tvamasi dharmajña prasādātpārameśvarāt" speaks volumes. It suggests that Vyasa's understanding of dharma and his freedom from sorrow are a direct result of the grace of the Supreme Lord. This is a crucial point because it underscores that true knowledge and liberation are not solely achieved through individual effort but are gifts bestowed through divine grace. The speaker acknowledges that Vyasa has attained a state of being free from grief, a state many of us aspire to. He is then invited to ask questions, and the speaker promises to answer, showcasing a willingness to share wisdom and guide the seeker.

In our modern lives, these verses offer profound lessons. We often strive for knowledge and happiness through material means, forgetting the essential role of divine grace and righteous conduct. Like Vyasa, we should strive to embody dharma in our daily actions, understanding that this path, coupled with faith and devotion, opens us to receiving divine blessings. The invitation to ask questions reminds us of the importance of seeking guidance from those who have walked the spiritual path before us. Don't be afraid to question, to learn, and to grow. Embrace the opportunity to shed your own sorrows through the grace of the Divine. Remember that true liberation is not just the absence of suffering, but the presence of divine love and wisdom in your heart. This passage encourages you to recognize the divine within and seek answers to your deepest questions.

REFLECTION FOR TODAY

What are the sorrows you cling to, and how can you open yourself to divine grace to find liberation from them?